

CordLife Sciences starts Mumbai collection centre

CordLife Sciences India, which claims to have the largest network of stem cell banks in the Asia Pacific, has started a stem cell collection centre in Mumbai. The company, which has achieved a 350% growth in India in FY2010 over the previous year, plans to invest upto A$4 million in India in the next two years. The Mumbai operations comprise a team of 18 stem cell specialists, which the company will raise to 50 in the next two years.